Tim Lowery

Land Management Supervisor - preminghana

Tim has just come on board as the on-ground supervisor with the preminghana team and aims to motivate and inspire a commitment to the restoration of healthy Aboriginal land. Tim has completed his Certificate II in Agriculture and comes from a background of working in primary industries including fishing, farming and forestry services.

Favourite part about working on country

Working on country is about being outside and doing what I love doing.

Short and long term goals

Tim's short term goal is to put a good plan in place for gorse control so that everything is managed at the right time, as in the right time of year and the right time in growth to prevent more spread. He also wants to promote healthy grasses and have all the team on the same page and happy.

His long term goal is to overcome the gorse problem at preminghana and bring the land back to the beautiful place that it is and hopefully have more of the community use the site.

When he is not at preminghana

Tim lives in Yolla and loves spending time with his lady and young boys, being in the bush and sharing his knowledge with his family and fixing up old cars and motors or anything mechanical or has a challenge to get it to work.
